Willesden Jewish Cemetery opened in 1873 - soon after the establishment of the United Synagogue in 1870. The prominent Leaders of Anglo-Jewry at the time, many of whom were esteemed by members English society, created a cemetery in keeping with the Victorian cemeteries of the period. Since then, familiar household names and celebrated artists, high street giants, scientists, philanthropists, Rabbonim - and so many others - are resting there. Their lives are often awe-inspiring.
